Dear parent/ guardian

The School of Social Sciences, Education and Social Work at Queen's University Belfast is running a Social Sciences Summer School in June for pupils thinking of studying social sciences at university. At this event, pupils will be able to learn more about important and interesting topics such as families, religion, crime and deviance, social inequality, ethnic diversity, politics, and Brexit. Pupils will have the opportunity to chat informally to staff and current students, and to find out more about study options.

The summer school is funded by the Queen's Q-Step Centre, which is part of a UK wide programme to increase the quantitative skills of social science students.

Travel Bursaries

Successful applicants will be awarded a bursary of £200, payable at the end of the summer school.
